SLAYER'S LIPS ARE CLOSED

Officers Examine Fatal Room to Determine Rationale From Which Shots Were Fired.

"I have hired a lawyer to do my talking," said Mrs. Gerda Anderson in her cell at the county jail yesterday afternoon to a World reporter. If she had no statement to make, as she did not, her 40-year-old daughter, who shot her 40-year-old husband to death when he visited her in her costume shop at 114½ E. First Street Saturday morning.

Other than this she would say nothing about her case and she was as cool and self-possessed as when we found a shoulder she turned over the smoldering revolver with which she had taken her husband's life, when she was when she released the details of the killing before Capt. A. W. Monroe, an hour after the tragedy.

The prisoner has the usual difficulties of the experienced business woman that she was. This is emphasized not only in her conduct since the killing but in the act of taking Anderson's life from four revolver shots to vital parts of her victim's body.

Examination of Room.

A search was made yesterday by the sheriff's forces of the room to which the killing occurred to determine the range and location of the bullets that passed through Anderson's body and the stray bullet which lodged in the wall. Mrs. Anderson claims that she fired upon her husband while he was shaking her. There are no powder burns upon Anderson's body or clothing. The location of the bullet is determined from what elevation the shots were fired. A plan will be drawn of the room showing where the bullets hit, how the furniture was placed, and where Anderson's body was lying when he fell.

Whether or not the prisoner's mother, Mrs. Ross, was an eye-witness to the killing will have considerable weight in the plea of self-defense which is to be made by Mrs. Anderson when she answers to the charge of first degree murder directly. The shooting, it was said, Mrs. Anderson made the statement that she and her husband were alone in the room at the time of the killing. Mrs. Ross stated that she overheard the quarrel from an adjoining apartment and that Anderson had often threatened the life of her daughter, but she did not state Saturday that she was in the room when the shooting took place. It was reported yesterday eye-witness testimony would be given by the mother.

There will be no inquest over Anderson's body.

SEEKS OUR AID TO AVOID BEING MADE JAP COLONY

NEW YORK, March 23.—Facing

the danger of becoming a mere Japanese colony, if she is forced to remain in Japan, China is seeking the friendship of the United States at the peace conference, declared Dr. John E. Williams, vice president of Nanking university, China, in an address here today.

Comparing China, which he said had abolished feudalism thousands of years ago, to Japan, which he said fastened its feet after the German revolution, with absolute control over the army, navy and industry, Williams declared that "we of America are the people in the world ought to be more sympathetic with the Chinese," because all the Chinese need is a chance for representative and democratic government.
